

Scott Fiddelke's Bachelor Party

“A day which will live in infamy”

Overview

- The Bachelor Party will be a day long affair full of memorable and enjoyable moments (at least for most of those involved).
 - I have been instructed not to include Karaoke or any sort of physical abuse as the groom feels both are bad ideas, though I'm not sure why.
- Care will still be taken to ensure the groom has ample opportunity for embarrassment

It Begins

- The party will begin as early as possible, sometime between noon and one PM. We want to make sure Scott gets his rest.
- We also need to make sure Scott is well nourished before his big day, so our first activity will be lunch.

The Next Step

- After all have eaten their fill we will move on to the festivities.
- While all details cannot be shared, the festivities will include activities such as the “Coke-n-Mentos Fountain Challenge.” Good, relatively clean fun. Scott will enjoy it.

It Continues

- An afternoon of relatively clean fun will build quite an appetite. The evening will begin with a hearty meal to replenish the hungry revelers.
- The meal will take place at a restaurant of Scott's choosing.
- Scott will be so happy he may even make Jess' favorite face.

The Climax

- After dinner has been completed, The First Annual (and probably last) Great Roast of Scott Fiddelke will begin.
 - A toast was considered, but that just didn't seem like nearly as much fun.
- Everyone in attendance will have an opportunity to share their favorite Scott Stories or Scott-Isms until all have had their fill.

Before hand, Scott will feel like this because he's never been roasted.

Roasting Away

- Scott may not have anything quite as embarrassing as this hiding in his past 🗣️ but that doesn't mean we can't find a few good stories to share.

Afterwards, Scott will feel like this because he's never enjoyed himself so much.

The Resolution

- As the evening winds down Scott will be excited, either because he has had such a good time, or because he never has to endure this again. When all is said and done he may even do a little dance.
